Risk assets recovered amid optimism on US-China trade relations

■ Prices of main risk assets recovered, improving the mood in financial markets after the recent positive developments in the US-China trade talks. The surrounding concerns about the relationship between the two major economies were overshadowed by the latest news announcing potential tariff cuts on US cars imported by China (see). However, concerns remained among investors, with eyes on the upcoming developments on Italy's budget and Brexit negotiations.

■ In this optimistic context, developed equity markets rebounded. Both US and European stocks were up, recovering from their recent sharp drops. However, the implied volatility in the US continued at its highest level (VIX above 20%).

■ The US Treasury 10Y yield was broadly steady ahead of tomorrow's release of inflation figures in the US. In the same line, the 10Y Bund yield continued to hover around 0.25% despite the release of better-than-expected economic sentiment indicator in Germany (ZEW) (see). The Italian risk premium remained steady (below 295 bps) despite surrounding uncertainty on Italy's deficit target in its 2019 budget (see).

■ The USD appreciated slightly while the EUR remained below the 1.14 USD/EUR level, with investors' focus on next Thursday's ECB meeting. The GBP remained under strong pressure amid ongoing fears on Brexit issues, with the focus on the parliamentary vote on the Brexit deal that will now take place before 21 January (see). In EM FX markets, the INR depreciated after yesterday's unexpected resignation of the governor of the Reserve Bank in India (see). Latam currencies were little changed, despite the recovery in oil prices.
