

Market Comment | Stocks mixed awaiting Fed decision

Global Financial Markets Unit
20 Sep 2017

- Financial markets remained little changed across the board, awaiting the upcoming Fed monetary policy meeting. Financial volatility rose slightly, although it remained at very low levels.
- US Treasuries and the USD inched down ahead of today's Fed decision. The market expects the official announcement of the shrinking of the Fed's balance sheet, while investors will be watching closely for any hints as to the future path of interest rates. The Fed's assessment of inflation will be also an important indicator for financial markets (see).
- Share prices were little changed both in the US and in the EZ. However, IBEX underperformed as tensions in Catalonia weighed on market sentiment.
- The USD inched down amid lower-than-expected existing home sales and renewed doubts about the US administration's ability to carry out promised reforms, especially regarding health care legislation, as the deadline is approaching without enough support (see).
- The GBP strengthened during the session, following the publication of bullish core retail sales in the UK in August (see), fanning speculation about higher rates in the UK, which was triggered by the last BoE meeting.
- Oil prices rose sharply despite the fact that US crude oil inventories rose by more than expected, pushing up EM currencies across the board.

- After yesterday's widespread positive mood after easing concerns over North Korea, today financial markets were broadly steady, with little variation among stock and bond prices.
- The USD continued in its recent upward trend while the EUR continued eroding its recent high level, as factors recently weighing on USD strength started to blur: geopolitical tensions, political uncertainty and hurricane effects, among others.
- US Treasury yields inched up after the release of PPI inflation, which rose on the back of surging gasoline prices due to the effects of hurricanes (see). Financial markets will be closely watching the developments of US inflation (tomorrow), a key variable for the Fed to design the path of US interest rate hikes onwards.
- Stock prices inched up in Europe, led by industrials and the finance sector. Meanwhile, US indices remained hovering around their highest levels despite the disappointment about the release date of the new Apple product, which affected suppliers (see)
- Oil prices increased after the IEA released its report (see) pointing to lower inventories due to higher demand. Moreover, today's release of gasoline inventories, which dropped significantly more than expected, supported the increase in oil prices. EM currencies also benefited from the higher oil prices.
